Double Major: Religious Studies and Computer Science

I was a double major in Religioust Studies and Computer Science. I really enjoyed reading about religions and learning the different ways people thinkand their stories. Religious Studies is such a wide field – covering literature, art, history, culture – it's kind of a combination of many of the other humanties subjects and that keeps the subject new and interesting in every class. Try a wide variety of GE classes so that you can find a subject other than your major that you genuinely like. I use my religous studies major to support my creative writing.
